(FOR THE COUNTRY,) Published regularly on TUESDAYS, THURS-DAYS and SATURDAYS, at FIVE DOLLARS PSE ANNUM, payable in advance.

The Conservative Candidates, for Lt. Governor and Attorney General. COLONEL ROBERT E. WITHERS,

Colonel Robert E. Withers, who has received the nomination on the Conservative ticket for Lieutenant Governor, was born in Campbell county, Va., in 1821. He graduated at the University of Virginia, and became a pracminner of medicine, to which he devoted himself exclusively for nineteen years. He resided first in Campbell and then in Danville, going to the latter place in 1858, and there remaining until the late civil war. Colonel Withers entered the war at its beginning, and in April, 1861, came to this city in command of a battalion. Here he was assigned by Governor Letcher to the command of the Eighteenth Virginia regiment. He participated in the battles of First Manassas, Seven Pines, and Gaines's Mill. In the lastnamed he fell dreadfully wounded while leading his regiment in the final charge, in which the enemy was routed. He received wounds through the right lung, the pelvis, and arm, together with a wound in the scalp. So fearful, indeed, was he wounded that his recovery was considered almost hopeless. He, however, so far recovered as to feel that he could return to the field. Several times he attempted to resume his command in the active service, but was so much disabled that each trial was found to be in vain. Colonel Withers' indeed, has not yet been entirely restored from the effects of his fearful wounds.

He was before the close of the war assigned to the prison post at Danville, and held it until he surrendered to General Wright on the 22d of April, 1865.

The war ended, he was too much of a cripple for the country practice of medicine, and seek-ing some pursuit better adapted to his physical condition, he became editor, first of the Lynchburg News, and afterwards of the Richmond Enquirer. The Colonel showed readiness and facility as a writer, and wrote with vigor and force, and we can say that for his honorable, fair and manly conduct as an editor he was an ornament of the profession.

In the spring of 1868 he was nominated for the office of Governor, and canvased the State against the Radical party and the then pending Underwood Constitution. He so aroused public opinion against the Constitution that the military authority (General Canby), fearing its rejection, postponed the vote upon it.

Before the campaign was over the "Liberal movement," as it was then called, was set on toot. It contemplated a union of Liberal Reoutlieans and Democrats, and Colonel Withers being rather ultra, it was thought, for that time -the State being still out of the Union-he yielded to the wishes of many friends and withdrew. Governor Walker was then nominated upon the fusion ticket, and the grand triumph of that ticket followed. For Colonel Withers's magnanimity at that time it has been generally thought that he should have been honored with some prominent positon, and his friends thought the present a good opportunity to discharge this public obligation to this deserving gentleman. General Kepper was nominated over him by the Conservative Convention, and all parties combined to bestow upon him the second place, which he accepted under a sense of duty, in spite of his just pride and self-re-

In every relation in life Colonel Withers has proved his loyalty, valor, truth, and virtue and as Lieutenant Governor will honor the office he will be placed in,

RALEIGH T. DANIEL.

Rawleigh (old style) Travers Daniel, the nominee of the Virginia State Convention for the position of Attorney-General, was born October 15th 1805, at Falmouth, Va., and was the son of John Moneure Daniel. His great grandfather, Peter Daniel, came from Yorkshire, England, and settled in Orange county at a very early date, and married Sarah Travers, of 1584. His grandmother, Sarah Travers, was the daughter of Rawleigh Travers, and Hanuah Ball, half-sister of Mary Ball, the mother of George Washington. The mother of the present nominee was Margaret Stone, daughter, of Thomas Stone of Habudeventure, Charles county, Md., a signer of the Dec-laration of American Ludependance, July 4,

Mr. Daniel lost both of his parents in early youth, and soon after removed to Richmond, where under the guardianship of the late Judge Peter V. Daniel, his uncle, he resided, and was reared in his family. After being educated he studied law with the Judge, and went to the bar when a very young man. He rose rapidly in his profession; and was chosen attorney for Henrico county under the old county-court system, and continued in the office until the court

He was Clay elector in 1844, and was elected a member of the House of Delegates from the city of Richmond in 1841. 42, when it only had one representative in the Lower House of the General Assembly.

For some time before and after this period Mr. Daniel had taken an active part in politics as a Whig, and stood amongst the most gifted and charming orators of the times. There was that the chaste and finished language and animated style of "Travis Daviel," as the peo-Ple called him, enchained the attention of crowded audiences. Politics ran high, and people were all politicians. Few equalled Mr. Patiel in his power of rhetoric. He was ardent, industrious, and efficient.

Mr. Daviel held a place in the Legislature 41-45, when he was chosen a member of the Executive Council to succeed the late John l'utherfoord. He was subsequently elected ity Attorney of this city to succeed the late seph Mayo, who was chosen Mayor of the ety. Mr. Daniel held this office till removed the military authority.

The continued all the while an efficient Whigh the continued all the while an efficient while the continued all the while and the continued all the while an efficient while the continued all the cont and did important service as a member of the Whig Executive Committee. He was an eleclor on the Bell and Everett ticket, was elected Chairman of the Conservative State Excutive Committee upon its organization, and has held the position until now. He was electda delegate to the Legislature from this city in

Mr. Daniel continued to devote himself successfully to his profession although giving so to man has rendered such constant and efficient service to his party and to the cause of the State, and no constant and constant and efficient of the state, and no constant and to the cause of the state, and no constant and the state and the stat State, and no one better deserves its honors and its benefits. Mr. Daniel's has been a bright career and We are sure his fame is such as to command for hun the earnest support of his fellow-citizens Phose good he has so long devoted his rare ts.—Richmond Dispatch.
